MB: The Egyptian regime covers up its failure by attacking Muslim Brotherhood

The Muslim Brotherhood (MB) stresses that the Egyptian regime's failure to manage the country's economic, political and social affairs, and its neglect of the Egypt's national security and sovereignty over its territory, will never be covered up by its media campaigns against the Muslim Brotherhood, accusing it of terrorism and of waging arms against individuals or institutions. Rather, such accusation is in fact a mere fabrication whose failure to distort the image of the Brotherhood has always been proven.

The smoke bombs fired by the regime between now and then are only to cover up its internal failure, its intransigence against detainees, and its failure to fulfill its national security duty, which requires the entry of aid to the people of Gaza without waiting for permission from the Zionists.

The Egyptian regime's failure to promote the idea of terrorism (against the Brotherhood) over the course of 12 years has been confirmed; given that the Egyptian people have become aware of the conspiracy that was hatched against them – that conspiracy which led them to the state of misery and poverty in which they currently live, and which has deprived them of their dignity and squandered their freedom under the rule of the coup regime.

We, along with all Egyptians, hope that Egypt will become strong, free and dignified once again soon.
